DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. Claims 32-36 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Essert (5,440,657) in view of Japan' 742.

Essert discloses an optical fiber connector and an inherent method for coupling a first optical fiber 36 to a second optical fiber 38 via a connector. The connector comprising: a bottom portion 30 having a groove 26; a top portion 28; and a first wedge 64 and a second wedge 66 that are configured to fit at least partially between the top portion and the bottom portion while the top portion is attached to the bottom portion; wherein the first and second wedges are configured to press the first and second optical fibers into the groove. Essert's first and second wedges lack the following function as being recited in the claims: the first wedge is activated by being slid toward the second wedge; and wherein the second wedge is configured to press a second optical fiber into the groove when the second wedge is activated by being slid toward the first wedge.

Japan' 742 discloses an optical fiber connector 32 provided with a slidable wedge 44 for fixing an optical fiber 20 to the connector when the wedge is being slid forward (see figure 1C).

Therefore, it would have been obvious to construct or provide the Essert's optical connector with a slidable first and second wedge in which: the first wedge is activated by being slid toward the second wedge; and wherein the second wedge is configured to press a second optical fiber into the groove when the second wedge is activated by being slid toward the first wedge in view of the teachings of Japan' 742. This would provide for a removable connector, which allows the optical fiber to be repair or replace more easily.

Regarding the limitations of wherein the first and second wedge each include a head portion and a body portion and the body portion has a sloping wedge surface and a bottom wedge surface are clearly shown by sloping wedge surface 42 of Japan' 742.

Regarding the use of larger v-groove for supporting the buffered portions of the optical fiber is well known. Essert and Japan' 742 also disclose larger grooves (32b, 34b) and 40, respectively, for supporting the buffered portions of their optical fibers.

Allowable Subject Matter

2. Claims 15-31 are allowed.

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments filed 10/13/05 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Regarding applicant's argument on page of the Remarks that "Claims 32 through 36, directed to the method of coupling optical fibers, are clearly not anticipated by Essert, see, for example, Essert's method as set forth in columns 6, lines 17-57 and are hence believed to be allowable". However, it is submitted that claims 32-36 were rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103 on a combination of Essert in view of Japan' 742 (see previous office action and above).

Conclusion

4. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
